

Content Removal Guide

Content removal should be requested after all evidence is preserved.

Guidance on evidence preservation and a sample evidence log can be found with our Evidence Preservation and Evidence Logs documents on this page.

Use the platform reporting tools to request the removal of content from the hosting site.

Create a case with StopNCii and/or NCMEC to help platforms detect image re-uploads. These organizations use an algorithm to assign a “digital fingerprint,” known as a hash, to an image. Duplicate copies of an image will have the same hash value, enabling platforms to identify and prevent these images from being reuploaded.

If located in the US, file a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission here.

If the image is your original content, you can also file a Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) takedown request for unauthorized use.
